I am appalled that there is an attempt to regulate satellite radio. I am a 67 year old retired male that frequently travels long distances by myself. I have a severe hearing loss and satellite radio gives me the security and clarity to stay abreast of weather and road conditions when I travel. A major disservice would be done to thousands of senior citizens who are dependant on a reliable source of music and information by pressing one button without having to try to constantly find something but a RAP or HIP HOP station with no information and no redeeming value as far as the older public is concerned. Also satellite radio is safer as I don't have to take my eyes off the road to change stations or search for a new proper station because of fade out or off the air. Most stations run down at sun down but sat. radio is 24 hours a day and much safer for the driving public. Let sat radio do what is best for the public. I personally am fed up with the filth and lack of concern for the majority of the American public by most of the US radio stations. For me satellite radio is a blessing that I subscribe to and pay for so Please leave it alone and let it grow.
